

Canadian Executive Council on Addictions Conseil exécutif canadien sur les toxicomanies

Strategic Directions

Mission

The Canadian Executive Council on Addictions (CECA) is a national, non-governmental organization established in April 2002, to influence public policy on addiction issues. We offer:

- A forum in which to develop common positions on addiction issues in Canada;
- The ability to strengthen the capacity and knowledge of addictions executives at the federal, provincial/territorial and municipal levels;
- An environment of collaboration to integrate diverse issues and improve addiction services across Canada; and
- A means of delivering proactive advice to all three orders of government.

Membership

CECA is made up of senior executives of addiction agencies in Canada that have a legislated federal or provincial mandate or are recognized provincial authorities.

Partnerships

Much of our work is in forging partnerships with federal, provincial and territorial governments, associations and networks, universities and other non-governmental organizations.

Strategic Directions: 2016 - 2019

- Enhance quality of services across residential addiction treatment facilities;
 - Enhance collaboration in addiction and mental health care;
 - Support improved provision of MMT across jurisdictions;
 - Advance the integration of primary care and mental health and addictions services;
 - Contribute to improving treatment of individuals experiencing issues with addiction and substance use in emergency care settings; and
- Maintain CECA's national leadership on issues related to addiction treatment.
